MELLON CALLED BY COMMITTEE ON BONUS BILL

Made Conflicting Statements on Bonus, Fordney Declares.

Washington, March 14—Secretary Mellon, Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger and Governor Harding of the federal reserve board, will be asked to appear before the house ways and means committee this afternoon to give further statements with regard to the bank loan provision of the soldier's bonus

Chairman Fordney said the bill would be reported out as soon as the three officials had been heard and that he did not think the measure would be attended any further.

The motion to call in the three administration officers was made by Representative Garner of Texas, the ranking Democrat and was adopted 13 to 11 after what was described as a sharp contest Seven Republicans joined with six Democrats in voting in the affirmative

In announcing that Secretary Mellon, Governor Harding and Comptroller Crissinger, would appear before the committee at 2 p m today in open session, Chairman Fordney said it had been decided to call them because they had "made statements conflicting with one another"

The ways and means committee voted down a motion to reinsert the cash feature of the bonus and to reimpose the excess profit taxes and another were said to have been the only income surtax rate of 65 per cent. These were said to have been the only important amendments brought up at this the first meeting of the entire committee to consider the bonus bill

Immediately after the house convened discussion on the bonus measure was precipitated when Representative Andrews Republican, Massachusetts obtained unanimous consent to insert in the record a copy of a letter he has written to members of the ways and means committee and also the house urging that there be included in the bonus bill a provision for adjusted compensation for the immediate relatives of service men who died during the war or have died since that time

WHEAT LEADS FARM EXPORTS

More Is Shipped Abroad in 1921 Than in Any Year in History of the Country.

Washington, March 14—Wheat was king of American agricultural exports in 1921

In analysis of the 1921 exports of the 32 principal agricultural products grown in the United States made public today by the department of agriculture, shows that more wheat was exposed during last year than in any preceeding year in the history of the country Exports of corn in 1921, including corn meal converted into terms of corn, were larger than in any year since 1900

The principal agricultural exports during 1921 and their declared values were

Wheat and wheat flour $551 00 000 pork and pork products including lard $246 000 000; corn and corn meal $97,000 0000, rye $44,000 000 and barley $21,000,000

Wheat exports totalled 279 949 000 bushels as compared with 216 287 000 bushels in 1920, but the value was $432,965 000 in 1921 as compared with $596 975 000 in 1920 a decrease of more than $160 00 000

Corn exports, including corn meal converted into terms of corn totalled 132 266,000 bushels valued at $96 566 000 as compared with 21 730 000 bushel valued at $33,972 000 exported in 1920

The department asserts that an analysis of American foreign trade is incomplete without taking into account both quantity and value for although exports of many leading agricultural products show a large increase in quantity, declines in value have greatly offset the possible gain derived from increased quantity

"It would be driving any man crazy to sit back among the cushions and squirm every time he felt the backlash of the transmission, when all it needed was a real mechanician," Glotzbach said

The reporter says Glotzbach told him there had been no friction, that the chauffeur husband just "escaped when his bride was not looking," that he will not go back.

Madame Matzenauer, it is said wants her husband back. WIRELESS WILL REVOLUTIONIZE LIFE ON FARMS

Agricultural Department Aide Sees Big Benefit To Farmer.

Can Get News, Market Conditions and Entertainment By Radio.

By W. A. WHEELER.
Chief, Radio News Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Washington, March 11.—Adaptation of radio communication to the use and service of agriculture will, in my judgment, do more to revolutionize life on America's farms than any other single factor that has ever been known.

Radio can bring to the farmer those things the lack of which has done most to make farm life both difficult and distasteful—news, market information, amusements and instructive entertainment.

W. A. Wheeler.

From my mind there is no single use of radio except the protection of life at sea and in the air that should take precedence over its utilization for the benefit of agriculture.

There are more than 32,000,000 people on farms comprising nearly one-third the total population of the United States. Most of these are located where they are practically cut off from immediate contact with the outside world. The radio is the only means of getting to them quickly and at the economic information necessary in the proper conduct of their business, or the general news of the day.

The department of agriculture broadcasts weather, crop and market reports from six radio stations of the postoffice department.

Daily market reports on the live stock grain, cotton, hay, feed fruits and vegetable markets are broadcast over virtually the entire United States. Farmers located almost anywhere can receive them either direct or through the assistance of amateur operators.

"FARMRADS"

Washington, March 14.—Radio is putting new words in Young America's vocabulary.

Among the latest is "farmrad," coined by the department of agriculture as the official designation of the farm radio clubs that have been springing up throughout the country.

The farmrads are the comrades of the air.

A number of state bureaus of markets and agricultural colleges are also broadcasting both local and world market and crop reports by radio telegraphy and radiophone.

With regard to the broadcasting of music and entertainment generally in the way of entertainment that will afford the farmer even slight advertisement from his daily labors will immediately redound to the benefit of the whole nation. The farmer is as much interested in the daily gossip, financial or sport news as anyone. In many instances, the only entertainment of which the farmer can avail himself is that which comes by radiophone.

The time element in dispatching weather, crop and market news is a big factor affecting the value of such reports.

In cutting hay or harvesting grain for example, an hour's delay in the dispatch of weather reports may mean a loss of several thousand dollars. An early morning report on weather conditions and the estimated receipts at the market that day is of great value to the live stock grower about to ship a carload of hogs to market.

Prompt daily reports on the fruit and vegetable markets enables the farmer to determine when and where farm products are most needed and to arrange his shipments accordingly.

A sudden frost may kill an entire fruit crop. By radio, warnings of severe temperature changes or of storms can be flashed instantly to an entire district.

When thousands of tons of food products are threatened with destruction by impending storms or floods ordinary methods of communicating warnings are too slow. Market news to be of greatest value should be received the same day.

All this is possible by radio. It enables the farmer to keep in instant touch with weather, crop and market news necessary for his business; it gives for his information a summary of important news happenings, it brings to his home, for all his family to hear, lectures, concerts, and other entertainments heretofore only accessible to the city dweller.

Radio puts the farmer in direct touch with the whole world.

DAYTON SCHOOL GIVES STUDENTS PRACTICAL WORK IN BUSINESS

Dayton, March 14.—(By NEA).—Every student a director of or stockholder in a corporation or member of a partnership!

That's the newest idea in high school education. It's being worked out—and successfully—at the Moraine Park school near here.

And the corporations and partnerships aren't make-believe imitations, either—they're genuine money making business organizations.

The school is working out the ideas of President Arthur E. Morgan and Professor Frank D. Slutz of Antioch college, whose aim is to make a high school student into a business executive while teaching him regular high school branches.

Here's the way it works out:

Students are given practical insight into business practice and management by 70 business enterprises conducted by students themselves.

Most important of these is the school bank. It's conducted just like a big national bank. It has a board of directors and various officials and carries around $1,000 in deposits from students.

On its deposits it pays interest at the regular rates. It loans money to other school enterprises on good security and at legal interest rates.

Another group of students operates a printing plant. This plant turns out placards, posters and printed forms for the school and does a little job printing for outsiders.

Still another school enterprise is the lunchroom corporation. This organization operates a lunchroom for students and teachers, selling wholesome food at a fair margin of profit.

One of the humblest enterprises is washing desks and performing other small personal services for students. The students who work at this collect fees fixed in accordance with a certain scale.

A student department of finance oversees all these business enterprises. Monthly reports are submitted by each. If the enterprise shows a loss the department of finance investigates and tries to put the business on a sound basis.

A thorough accounting is rendered by every enterprise at the close of each school year. If there's a profit—and there usually is—a dividend is declared in which every student associated in the enterprise shares.

The business element isn't the only unusual feature about this new school.

Students are entirely self governing. They have a commission form of government. The mayor is the chief executive and next to him is the community manager.

There are commissions on recreation, welfare, finance, public safety and law.

The public safety commission enforces school rules and metes out punishment to offenders.

The department of welfare takes care of sanitation and cleanliness of the school and grounds. Janitor work is done by students, groups working in five-week shifts, so that all have a share in the work.

In the school's assembly room are little coops or private offices where students work out their own problems, never troubled by interference or supervision.

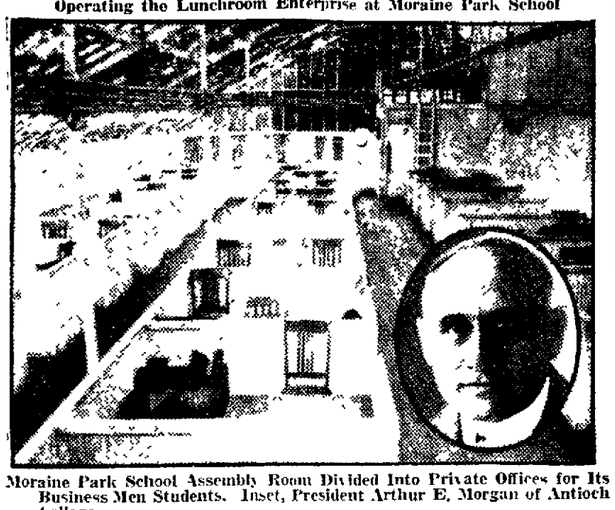

And if the office grows stuffy the student can go to the printshop or to the quarters of some other enterprise and watch the work.

Or he can go out in the woods and study under the trees if he feels a member of the public safety department where he's going.

C. F. Ketterling, vice president of the General Motors corporation is president of the school. E. A. Deeds and George B. Smith are the directors. Professor Slutz is headmaster.

TELLS OF Y. M. C. A. WORK IN INDIA

O. O. Stanchfield central regional director for the foreign department of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., spoke Friday noon before the board of directors and guests in the Newark Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Stanchfield spent a number of years in India and related some of his experiences in that country.

The problems were largely economic and social. The way Stanchfield and his aides went at their task as he told it appealed to the Newark business men.

He described the first hut he saw as built of mud with a straw thatched roof. It had two rooms. In one room lived the father and mother, the son and his wife and a small boy and a babe in arms. In the other room was a cow and 20 chickens. The house was locked tight at night as it was believed the night air was unhealthful.

By practical methods introduced by the Y. M. C. A., farmers quadrupled their earning power in a few years. There are now 16 Y. M. C. A. secretaries in India. The Newark Y. M. C. A. boys division is helping support a boys work secretary there.

The Rt. Hon. Srinivasa Sastri, representing India in the British delegation at the Washington conference said:

"The work of the Y. M. C. A. in India is beyond praise. What I have seen of it fills me with admiration and gratitude. The magnitude and the many-sideness of the operations of the association are a wonder to me, and I have sometimes felt that non-official organizations in India would gain in persistence and boldness of methods and ideals of this great movement."

A Frank L. Johnson Foreign Work club will be formed in the local membership, who will be interested in the Y. M. C. A. work in the non-Christian lands.

BOY SCOUTS GATHER LIZARDS FOR SCIENCE

Equipped with bottles, buckets, dip nets and flash lights in all parts of the country where salamanders wiggle about, Boy Scouts are about to make periodic hikes to collect specimens in response to a request sent out to the whole organization by the American Museum of Natural History of New York. The museum is making a survey of the salamanders in the United States, and in order to have the collecting done thoroughly, they turn to Scouts who have become enthusiasts for museum work.

Everybody knows a salamander when he meets one. You are apt to call it a lizard, although lizards have scales and salamanders do not. Scouts can tell you that. They can tell you that these little, graceful, wriggly, salmon colored amphibians are easy to catch and are harmless. The gilled salamanders which are the larvae, scouts will grown in small bottles of 4 per cent formol and send them, watery graves and all, to the museum. Living adult specimens will be shipped in covered tin pails in which has been placed a handful or two of moss and dead leaves in some water.

FIVE NOON-HOUR MEETINGS HELD BY Y

The industrial work of the Y. M. C. A. shows that five noon-hour meetings were held in four plants during February.

The closing of the basket ball league ocurs this week and a post season game is scheduled with the sunday school league champs for next week. The warm weather has opened up "early spring training on the Twilight base ball league question, and the holding of a city wide horseshoe tournament is also up for discussion and action.

Plans along these lines will develop more rapidly as soon as the basket ball season is filed away.

DANIEL BOONE HOME FALLS TO RUINS

Reading Pa. March 14.—Deserted by the children it has withstood for 122 years the stone house in the foothills of Exeter township, Berks county where Daniel Boone, the Kentucky pioneer, was born, is slowly falling to ruin from lack of care. Until two years ago the house had been tenanted and the necessary repairs made but now it is deserted, the cellar full of water, windows broken, doors decaying and the 160 acres of estate uncared for.

The farm is situated about one and a half mile from Stonersville. The lane leading to the premises is marked by a large white rock placed by the Historical Society of Berks county, on which is the inscription.

One quarter mile to the birthplace of Daniel Boone October 2, 1735.

In this connection it may be said that some authorities give the date of his birth as 1734 and 1736 and his birthplace Bucks county, Pennsylvania.

According to history Boone stayed here until he was 17 years of age when he went to Kentucky. Tradition has it that it was nearby that he killed his first bear when he was 14 years old, and he was so proud of his achievement that he carved an inscription on a tree with his hunting knife, reading "D. Boone killed a bar near here."

The house has four rooms on the first floor, six on the second and an attic. The original Boone dwelling had two rooms on the first floor and three on the second, but an addition similar to the original in every respect was made after the family migrated.

One of the original rooms contains a large fireplace made of stone and still in good condition. Here it was on the mantelpiece, according to tradition that young Boone carved a notch indicating his height when he went to Kentucky, and upon his return in middle age was interested to see how much he had grown. However, the historic notch cannot be discovered on the mantle piece.

The shutters and doors of the dwelling are hung on wrought iron hingers and still are in good condition, but many of the windows are broken, permitting rain and snow to enter and causing the floor to decay.

Efforts have been made to have the state purchase the house where the pioneer was born, and still more recently, there have just been reports that the Historical Society of Clark county, Ky., has interested itself in the possible purchase of the farm for historical purposes. The farm is valued at $15,000 according to late estimates.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $5.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The syrup part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready made for three times the money. It is pure good and tastes very pleasant.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A Bible Thought for Today.

THE POWER OF THOUGHT:—As he thinketh in his heart, so is he.—Proverbs 23:7.

SCIENTIFIC ADVERTISING.

A writer in Printers' Ink tells the story of how a big modern concern is using advertising in a scientific way. The company referred to assigns to each salesman a definite quota which he is expected to sell in each town and each store. If he falls down in any locality or in any store, the advertising department gets busy.

It appears in many such cases, that there has been a failure to do enough newspaper advertising to make the product go in that locality, and the company has a fund from which an appropriation is made for that purpose.

The article referred to says: "There are some old timers on the sales staff who had the old fashioned idea about advertising being a luxury, upon which the company spent its good money—money which they produced by their superior selling ability. But they have changed their viewpoint, and now accept the advertising as the primary selling essential. Others who could not or would not accept the new view, have been gently but firmly removed from the payroll."

As a result of the company's advertising methods in about 90 out of 100 cases where sales fall off, the business is pushed until the salesman is able to make his quota.

Although the business outlook for 1921 was not good the company decided not to cut its advertising appropriation, and as a result the sales for that year were the best in the company's history. It was decided therefore, hereafter to set apart a certain definite proportion of the sales receipts for advertising, and the list of newspapers in which their publicity is placed will be greatly increased.

While this is a story of the achievement of a big company and a national advertiser, the same principle applies absolutely to any retail store. When a man's business falls off or fails to grow, instead of growing about hard times, he should jump in with more advertising.

COMMUNISM AMONG THE PILGRIMS.

Like the early settlers in Virginia, the early Pilgrims who settled at Plymouth colony in Massachusetts bay, tried having their goods and the product of their labor in common. This famous company was led by men of high idealism and splendid intelligence. While it included some less worthy characters, yet as a whole it ranked high for enthusiasm, determination, and industry. If communistic methods would ever work, they would have worked in so favorable an opportunity.

Gov. Bradford, in his "History of Plymouth Plantation," tells how the scheme operated in practice. He wrote, to quote his quaint spelling and language:

"The experience that was had in this common course and condition, tried sundrie years, and that amongst godly and sober men, may well evince the vanite and conceite of Plato and other ancients, applauded by some of later times—that the taking away of propertie, and bringing in communitie into a comone wealth, would make them happy and flourishing; as if they were wiser than God. For this communitie was found to breed such confusion and discontent, and retard much imployment that would have been to their benefite and comforte."

The old manuscript goes on to tell how the young men who were able to do the most felt it a grievance to have to work for other men's wives and children without recompense, also the more sober men were dissatisfied, because they had to share equally with those who had less industry as a miserable failure. Before abandoning it, they suffered from lack of and character.

At an early date in the old colony's history, communism was given up good. But after the individual was gone an incentive to ambition by right to hold private property and gain the reward of his own efforts, the colony secured firm foundations, and the pioneers got over the worst of their hardships.

THE PASSION FOR WORK.

When Thomas Edison's birthday occurred the other day, his associates could not persuade the famous inventor to quit work. He kept digging at his job just the same as if he had not become 75 years of age on that day. Most people quit active labors long before this period of their lives.

Mr. Edison's inventions in such fields as electric lighting, telephony, the phonograph, etc., have improved and brightened living conditions for practically everybody. But this achievement, marvellous as it is, is no more noble than the splendid example that Mr. Edison sets daily of devotion to his daily task.

While others must have pastimes and diversions to keep them amused, Mr. Edison finds abundant joy in exercising his own wit on his daily job. The thought that he is improving living conditions for the world is play enough for him. If more of his spirit could prevail in ordinary life, the problems of the world would be solved.

WE DECLINE GENOA.

(Philadelphia Record)

If the President had accepted the invitation in Genoa without consulting Congress he would have antagonized the dominant element in the Senate, and probably in the House, also. He would have been involved in an unpleasant controversy. But if he had asked Congress to authorize him to accept, the invitation Congress might have declined. That would have been mortifying to him. Mr. Harding has no stomach for a controversy over the prerogatives of his office. The happy and Harding way out of the difficulty was to decline.

The President is not satisfied with the agenda of the conference. Neither was Japan satisfied with the agenda of the Washington conference. It wanted to know a lot of things Mr. Harding had not told. Mr. Harding urged Japan to disregard the agenda and come to the conference, anyway, and Japan did. But the President won't take his own medicine. The truth is, he was looking around for a convenient pretext for declining and keeping out of trouble with Congress, or a possible discourtesy.

But the President is not unconscious of our own interests. He says: "There can be no improvement in world conditions oin the absence of European recuperation." The decrease in our exports is a partial indication of what present world conditions and the lack of European recuperation mean to us simply as a business matter. It is not likely that prosperity will return to the United States until there has been a marked improvement in Europe and the world at large. But we will not help; we will not even go to a conference to consider the situation and decide on what might be done.

The biggest and riches nation will not help the restorattion of the world. Mr. Harding and the Republican party are bringing the United States into contempt, and possibly hatred in the world. If we were represented in Genoa we would not be committed to any course of action. We could oppose anything we disapproved of. We might have suggested something else. There must be something we would be willing to do and our representatives at Genoa could have told Europe what it was. It might have been acceptable.

We were sufficiently concerned in political affairs in Europe to send two million soldiers to Europe and collect over two millions here to follow if necessary. But since the fighting closed we have done nothing. We will do nothing. We repudiate our responsibilities to the world; we leave our associates in the war in the lurch; we will not consult with them and the defeated nations to see whether anything can be done to improve conditions which concern our own business, to say anything of our honor. It is not likely that the Administration or its party would care much about the latter, but both profess to care a great deal about our business.

How must respect and confidence is the United States likely to command in the world under the present Administration, and how much prosperity are we likely to enjoy while Europe is in a hole, and sinking deeper? Didn't the President say something in his inaugural address about the impossibility of isolating ourselves, and of the readiness of the United States to do its part in solving the world's problems? But the President will send no envoy to Genoa, and the conference is likely to fail through.

Did You Know

That the vegetation of Africa is decidedly less varied than that of Europe or Asia? Along the Mediterranean coast it greatly resembles that of Southern Europe. Although the tropical regions are not so rich in species of plants as those of South America, still they exhibit many peculiar general. The forests are rich in valuable woods, especially in the harder kinds. Ebony, certain kinds of rosewood, and African teak are among them. The buttertree is one of the most remarkable trees, its fruit yielding a fixed concrete oil. The date-palm, the doom-palm, the oil-palm, and the cocoa-nut-palm flourish in different parts of the continent. Grapes are successfully cultivated in the region of the Cape of Good Hope, as is also sugar-cane.

Q. How much damage does the peach borer do to the peach crop and what can be done to prevent it? L. J. C.

A. The department of agriculture says that the injury done to peach trees each year by this pest, including the cost of control measures, amounts approximately $6,000,000.

The use of paradichlorobenzene, a volatile poison, is the most successful method of control that has been discovered.

Q. How many parts are there to an Indian arrow? S. B.

A. A complete Indian arrow is made up of six parts: head, shaft, foreshaft, shafment, feathering, and neck. These differ in material, formmeasurement, decoration, and assemblage, according to locality and tribe. Arrowheads have three parts: body, tang, and barbs. There are two kinds of arrowheads: blunt, and sharp. In the Southwest a sharpened foreshaft of hard wood serves for the head. Arctis and Northwest coast arrows have heads of ivory, bone, wood, or copper, as well as stone; elsewhere they are more generally of stone, chipped of polished. The head is attached to the shaft or foreshaft by lashing with sinew, by riveting, or with gum.

Q. How much does it cost to build a battleship and maintain it one year? F. A.

Q. Do various breeds of cattle thrive anywhere in this country? G. R.

A. The department of agriculture says that conditions vary greatly both as to climate and topography. All breeds thrive on rich, level pastures, but some are better adapted than others to rough, hilly land and scant pasturage. Some cattle withstand the extreme cold of the north, while others are suited to the almost tropical heat of some of the southern states.

Q. At what temperature do we get liquid air? G. A. C.

A. Air is liquified by pressure, but cannot be liquified by any pressure so long as its temperature is above 220 degrees F. below zero (—140 C.) but if it first be cooled to a temperature slightly below this it condenses to a liquid upon the application of a pressure of 39 atmospheres.

Q. How can whitewash be removed from a brick wall? L. G.

A. Whitewash may be removed from a brick wall by scrubbing with a wire brush to remove all particles. Then scrub with dilute solution of muriatic acid, 1 part acid, 10 parts water, using a long handled brush as this acid is poisonous. The brick work should then be thoroughly rinsed with clear warm water.

Q. How can it be said that the signing of the Constitution was unanimous, when only 11 states signed? R. H.

A. Bancroft, the historian, says that "Eleven of the 13 state delegations signed the proposed Constitution. Since the two other delegations had previously left the convention, the signing was unanimous. All perhaps had grave doubts about one feature or provision or another but they had builded better than they knew, and they all had the courage to sign the concrete result of their arduous work."

DELEGATES TO SIGHTSEE.

Honolulu—Delegates to the Pan-Pacific Commercial Conference which is to begin here Oct. 30, will devote several days to sightseeing, including a three-day trip to the active volcano of Kilauea on the island of Hawaii. A. H. Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union, which is sponsoring the gathering, has announced.

Most of the delegates from the mainland of the United States will arrive on October 30. Business sessions will begin October 31 and continue until November 7, the delegates leaving Honolulu the next day for the island of Hawaii. The mainland delegates are to leave for their homes November 15.

Ford said he had obtained the approval of Secretary Hoover for the conference and that representatives of nearly all the nations bordering the Pacific had promised to attend. Secretary of States Hughes also promised to cooperate and to forward invitations to foreign countries.

Barber Gives Radio Program.

An enterprising barber in Kansas City, Mo., has had a wireless telephone receiving set installed and connections made for head receivers. Customers waiting to be shaved or to have their hair trimmed can "listen-in" on a concert, and if they desire, may continue listening while sitting in the chair.

CASSINA IS STUDIED AS NEW BEVERAGE

Science Is Busy Seeking Ways In Which To Save.

Would Utilize Many New Food Products and Substitutes.

(By FREDERIC J. HASKIN)

Washington, D. C., March 14.—Development of a new, American grown beverage is one of the latest projects of the versatile Bureau of Chemistry in the Department of Agriculture. In South Carolina fields and in a laboratory here cassina is being carefully studied in the expectation that some day it may find favor with the American public.

In another laboratory, scientists of the Bureau are studying ways in which leather can best be preserved. It is concluded that if each individual proper care of his shoes he might reduce the average number of pairs bought by each person in a year from three to two—a saving nationally of some $500,000,000.

From leather, the Bureau's interests run to syrup, and it has developed a long sought sugar cane syrup which neither ferments quickly nor turns to sugar. This means that if the cane syrup is commercially handled New Englanders may be able to compare this southern delicacy with their famous maple syrup.

These random examples of research work were selected by Dr. W. W. Skinner in charge of the scientific work of the Bureau of Chemistry as he explained how his Bureau works for the general public, and not alone for the farmer, as many people think.

"We are working," said Dr. Skinner, "toward greater utilization of primary agricultural products and by-products. The utilization of by-products sometimes makes the primary product cheaper to the consumer and at the same time the producer is able to derive more profit from his materials. Therefore, everyone is concerned with the service which agricultural chemistry is rendering to the country."

Dr. Skinner showed how in some cases the service rendered by the Bureau to the consumer is direct—as in its suggestions on conservation of shoe leather.

"We are doing a great deal of work on conservation of leather," Dr. Skinner said. "This country is having to import more and more hides every year for making leather. If we can reduce that import by saving leather every user of leather in the country would benefit."

A bulletin on this subject is one result of extensive tests and experiments by scientists in the leather laboratory. The following two paragraphs taken from the bulletin show the practical character of the Bureau's suggestions:

"An economical plan is to have two pairs of shoes which are worn on alternate days, thus permitting each pair to become thoroughly dry between the periods of wearing them.

"Great care must be taken in drying wet boots and shoes, for they often burn before it seems possible. Moreover, if dried too fast and without proper attention, they shrink, becoming hard and misshapen. To dry wet boots and shoes properly, first wash off all adhering mud and grit with tepid water, and in the case of work or rough shoes at once grease them. Straighten the counter, heel, and vamp, and top to the proper shape, and stuff the shoes with crumpled paper, which helps them to hold their shape and shortens the drying period. Finally, set the shoes aside in a place that is not too warm and allow them to dry slowly. Wet leather burns very easily, much more readily than dry leather. The shoes should not be worn until they have become thoroughly dry."

Considering the cost of shoes, the importance to everyone of knowing how to get the most service out of a pair of shoes is obvious.

In other phases of the bureau's research work the general public is indirectly concerned, as in the sugar cane syrup investigations. Incongruously enough, this syrup project seems likely to affect southern cotton growers first. The cotton boll weevil which has so devasted cotton fields in some southern states has discouraged many growers. They know that if the land is planted in different crops for several seasons the boll weevil will die off from starvation and disappointment. The problem is to find a suitable and profitable crop to replace the cotton.

Sugar cane is one possible crop, and the bureau of chemistry, syrup investigations show can growing as one solution of the cotton grower's dilemma..

Sweet potato syrup is another suggestion to the southern farmer made by the bureau after long investigations crowned at last with success. The sweet potato syrup produced by the bureau experts is pronounced a very desirable syrup. It remains to arouse public interest in the commodity. In Fitzgerald, Georgia, where experiments have been made government scientists are to produce several thousand gallons this year and distribute it, to show consumers that the product is acceptable.

This newly developed food product is expected to increase interest in sweet potato raising. The cull potatoes—the jumbos that are too large and the dwarf potatoes that are too small to be fit to market—can be turned into syrup as a practical commercial proposition, the bureau of chemistry says.

But, though new kinds of syrup are the bureau's most engrossing interest just now, they are not, perhaps, so novel as a new drink. The beverage which the bureau is developing somewhat resembles tea. It is made from a plant known as cassina which grows luxuriantly in the south. Cassina is an herb belonging to the same family as yerbamate of South America. It is a kind of holly with leaves small and round like mistletoe and red holly berries. It grows 25 feet high in hedges and windbreaks on southern farms.

"The leaves of this plant are said to have been used in the Civil war by colored people as a tea," Dr. Skinner explained. "But tea is not properly made from leaves simply picked and marketed. The leaves must be cured, and it is this process that we are developing. Investigations are being carried on in South Carolina and other places and we hope to produce a new drink which will meet with favor among the tea connoisseurs of this country.

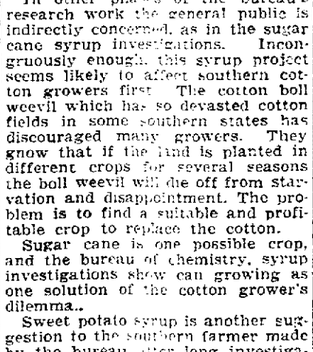

"We have made some excellent tea from the leaves of this plant. It has a bouquet similar to high grade tea with a piquant flavor of its own that is peculiarly agreeable. We are hoping to produce it this year on a semi-commercial scale, and we believe that it will prove to be cheaper than tea. This does not mean that it is to be a cheap product that may be substituted for tea or blended with tea. It is a new beverage that will be introduced on its own merits. Both tea and coffee are altogether imported by this country. Here is the possibility, our experimental work shows, for development of a great American beverage industry, for cassina can be grown anywhere from North Carolina down through the South."

It is even thought possible that cassina tea might prove a profitable export to countries using yerba mate. Argentina, the country where yerba mate is in highest favor, uses 60,000,000 pounds of it a year. All but 3,500,000 pounds are imported largely from Brazil and Paraguay. If the cassina drink proves acceptable it is possible that we may export some to Argentina. Aside from the fact, that yerba mate has a smoky taste, slightly reminiscent of creosote, due to the leaves being dried over a wood fire, it tastes very similar to cassina.

The bureau of chemistry is working with various other technological projects in which it sees possibilities of helping the farmer, the manufacturer and the general public. The grease that is always present in wool when it comes from the sheep has been made a subject for investigation in the bureau with the result that what was once wasted is now being used for lanolin in making cosmetics, and that potash is also obtained from the wool scourings.

New methods of manufacturing insecticides, commercial dehydration of fruits and vegetables, ways of preserving tenting and other farm fabrics are other propositions on which the bureau is working. Almost every product on the farm has posibilities for greater use, but the bureau is limited in funds. It has to take up the work that seems most needed.

"It is mainly in the last half century," Dr. Skinner concluded, "that agricultural chemistry has played its important part in developing materials and we believe that in future chemistry is going to render even a greater service than it has in the past."

HERE I AM
ASK ME

The Newark Advocate has arranged to present a series of articles which began on February 27, giving information concerning the Boy Scouts of America and of Newark. Look for these articles if you want to know the facts.

(Contitnued from yesterday's Advocate)

Exchange Your Money.

Money depends on men. Its making and its morals are in the hands of men. Tomorrow that boy will be a man. He will have to do with money. What will he do with it? He will be honest, straight, clean, because we are going to help him.

Community character depends on the character of its citizens. Tomorrow that boy will be a citizen. What kind of a citizen will he be? He will be. "Physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." Because we are going to help him.

The men and women of today are going to exchange twenty-five thousand dollars in cash for the development of character in Newark boys. It is the greatest investment that can be made.

Scouting Has Been Tested.

It is an investment but not an experiment.

It is no gold brick.

No blue-sky law restraining it.

Your receipt for your subscription will not be a relic of folly.

It will be a souvenir that in later days will make your dimming eyes glow with pride.

Some day you will sit and think of things done in making Newark and you will say: "Character and intelligence made that trail. It paid to put some money into scouting."

My Boy is All Right.

Here and there we find a parent who thinks only in the terms of his own boy. "My boy is all right. He doesn't need to be a scout. I'm taking care of him myself."

Raising his boy to be a hermit.

He is a mental hermit himself who thinks that way.

If he has time and intelligence to really care for his own boy he ought to be a scoutmaster and help take care of other boys also.

Suppose You Succeeded.

Suppose you, Mr. Man, could take care of your boy and meet his desires and train him for manhood. Could you get any better result than to have him "Physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight?" Could you?

How long are you going to keep him isolated? Sooner or later he must do things for himself. You can't keep on his trail and by his side all the time and do anything else in life yourself. What then?

He may have learned to thoroughly understand you. He has not thus learned to understand other boys. And they are the ones with whom he must later build his own life. This is where scouting comes in.

It trains the boy with boys. And later when he grows up they will be grown up. And their lives will trail together.

A Scout Stopped a Runaway.

You have read the story of how a scout stopped a runaway horse on a city street one day. His action doubtless saved the people from injury and perhaps from death.

Men had tried to stop the runaway before it reached the boy.

The scout stopped it. The men did not.

They were anxious to stop it.

But they did not know how.

The Boy Scout stopped it because he did know how.

He Ran With the Runaway.

The men tried to head the horse off. The horse shied and went around the men.

The scout started running with the horse. He went just a little ways just as fast as the horse went.

Then he had the bridle in his hand and he began to slow down.

The horse slowed down too.

How About Those Runaway Boys?

We were telling you about the other boy. The other boy is a runaway boy. He isn't so different after all from the runaway horse.

Men try to stop the runaway boy by heading him oc. He shoes and keeps on running.

Scouting runs with the boy just a little way and just as fast as he runs. It catches the bridle of his own desire: "Physically strong." Then it slows down. The runaway boy slows down too. Then the boy who was running away becomes a scout trained to be "mentally awake" and "morally straight."

Your Opportunity Is Here.

Today a group of men of Newark and all Licking County started giving unselfishly of their time, in order that Scouting may have its opportunity with boys.

Not only is this Scouting's opportunity, and the boy's opportunity, but also your opportunity.

It is your privilege to have a part in presenting this opportunity to the boy. Therefore when the solicitor sees you today or tomorrow make your privilege as large as you possibly can.

It will pay big dividends.

DO IT NOW!

(To Be Continued Tomorrow)

The Newark Advocate has frequently endorsed the Boy Scout movement congratulating the leaders of it in Newark on the remarkable development of the work here in the last three years, and called the attention of our citizens to the local and national importance of it. The Advocate desires to see Newark the first city of its size in America in the work of the Boy Scouts as it may be if the people support this campaign. If any citizen has any question to ask, it will be answered by the local headquarters, call for K. L. Brown, Scout Executive, phone 1749.

Increases the action of the intestines

Hundreds of men and women have already found freedom from laxatives by eating Fleischmann's fresh yeast.

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of waste matter should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indiscriminate use of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy. In one series of tested cases, normal functions were restored in from 3 days to 5 weeks.

Try it out for yourself. Begin today by adding 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your everyday diet. Keep it up and see how normally and regularly your intestines act. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.

Banker's Daughter Has Unique Dancing School

Beatrice Wanger

New York, March —(By NEA)—Beatrice Wanger, daughter of a house of bankers, is devoting her life to teaching working girls self development.

In the Damrosch studio I found her surrounded by a dancing group clad in Greek draperies They had just finished a light supper, for the girls had come to the studio direct from their jobs.

One was a little waitress of 19 who gets $12 a week, another a young stenographer, others were similarly employed.

'These girls have the same right to beauty as those who can afford to go to fine schools,' said Beatrice Wanger.

'If you could only see the change in them! I am not a teacher of the dance, but of self development I merely use aesthic expressions of harmony to demonstrate that co ordination of mental work is as necessary for strengthening the minds as physical work for building the body

Rhythm is the first expression of feeling A right sense of value—balance—leads to creative freedom and broader individuality, it means the right relation to the world

'These girls want nice minds in nice bodies, they aspire to be of service in the world

'Some of these girls are at the age to feel the lure of jazz and dance halls—yet tired out from their work, they prefer to come here Two just refused $50 a week to go to South America as chorus girls—and now they make only $12 a week.'

Two thousand girls have passed through Miss Wanger's studio doors to better living in the past six years

Miss Wanger's work is not a commercial one—it is rather a co operative group demonstrating the spirit of service in daily life as well as through art expression Each girl pays a bit, in accordance with her income

POLLY and PAUL ....and PARIS

By Zoe Beckley

CHAPTER LX.
TO TELL OR NOT?

It was still early when Paul, lonely and heavy of heart, reached the Rue d'Antin. The concierge was taking the air before closing the doors for the night. Reluctant to have her see him dejected, Paul tried to be jocular.

"And how's my wife been behaving in my absence? I left her in your charge, you know, Mme. Dubois."

"Like an angel!" came her quick reply. "In bed every night before 10, monsieur. My daughter, Jeanne, was not more exemplary than madame—and I am strict with Jeanne." She rattled on almost eagerly. "Sometimes Mme Dawson was with her friend Mlle Bradly—and an amiable young lady she is—but always she was early indoors, every night."

"What?" said Paul queerly, "Every single night?'

"Mais, oui, monsieur that is what I said." She suddenly began hunting for something in her little room "I ought to know. Do I not see everything through my little window here? But—monsieur is jesting."

"Yes," said Paul "Good night, madame"

"Bon soir monsieur bon soir"

Paul climbed two flights of stairs before he remembered the elevator Then he kept on, smiling grimly That good Mme Dubois, friend of Polly and kindly soul that she was had to lie for her made him sick at heart Or—was it Violet who had told him falsely? Well—Polly would tell him when she came home

He dreaded going in The place would be like a tomb, or worse yet, a veritable stableful of nightmares . . .

The door was flung open from inside—and Polly was in his arms'

"I told Mme Dubois not to tell you—"

"Tell me what?" Paul's voice was eager

"—that I was home, goose' The minute I got the telegram (forwarded by mail, dear, imagine!) I flew back. I wanted to surprise you Paul darling—you don't look well. Are you tired, boy? Didn't the work go right?"

"Yes, yes, Pussykins, fine!"

"Aren't — aren't you glad to see me?"

"What a question, my girl," and his lips silenced her wordlessly.

She had prepared a little feast—some cold meat from the charcuterie round the corner, a salad of her own making, strawberries on their own green leaves, and tiny almond cakes

"But—but dear, there's something the matter' Is anything worrying you?" Polly came round the table and put a finger under his chin.

"Um umph" he shook his head, "Not a thing. Tell me about yourself."

"But I have, I've been talking a streak I wrote you about the studio party we went to at the Crassards'?"

"M—yes, but you didn't tell very much. I've never been to a studio party—tell me everything about it Was it a late affair—seeing the dawn and all that sort of thing?"

Madame Dubois' words flashed into her mind "Don't strain a man's faith. Say nothing of it...." And doubt crept into her mind. Wouldn't it be better not to tell? * * * Paul was looking at her queerly. Another thought came. "The devil has his serpents upon earth—"

"Paul—where were you tonight, just now, before you came in?"

Pin Tucked Taffeta And Chiffon Frock

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

THE aristocracy that taffeta evidences is enough to make all other fabrics envious, especially when it has the distinction of being made up in so smart a style. Soft, shining, black taffeta makes this dress. Mist color chiffon is used for the plaited portions, and tiny black velvet bows serve as ornament. In addition, a dainty lace collar finishes the boat-shaped neckline.

The sleeves with the wee opening at the tip of the shoulder, the vest closing at top and bottom, the basque, and the pin tucks of the skirt all boast of springtime newness.

The pointed skirt is a compromise for the longer skirt and is attractive when the skirt boasts of just the right amount of fullness.

Georgette may be used as a more serviceable substitute for chiffon; and if a truly summer frock is desired, organdie substitutes admirably for the taffeta, while sheer net serves equally well for the chiffon.

This frock lends a world of possibilities for color, for in taffeta and chiffon, the brown and tan, the blue and gray, the Rosemary and cream, are excellent combinations; and, then, in organdie, there are ever so many more.

JUST A CHAT OF FADS AND FASHION

Everything in the sports line must match this year to be absolutely a la mode It makes a snappy costume, when the hat, suit, or cape and hose or scarf and hat carry out the same color.

One hears so much these days from the decorators about glazed chinta. It is that very shiny material of which they are making window shakes, slip covers and draperies, and because it sheds dust, of course, is very, very new, it has become very popular.

The new spring sweaters are lovely. They are combining the wool and silk in contrasting colors. One sweater has horizontal stripes knitted of silk and the body of the sweater in wool. There is silk trimming at the neck and wrists and a silk girdle.

Tinsel tricollette is new and very lovely. As its name implies it shows a gleaming surface, which in the uneven tricollette finish is most attractive Either gold or silver may be had and when veiled in tulle or chiffon of a contrasting color it is very attractive.

Collars have returned, and the new frocks show them. They make them attractive by smartly handsome hand work Nearly every model in the lightweight material features the collar More often than not it is the tuxedo. On a pill-box red linen, chic and slim the collar was of gray with embroidery of red and white A gown of red check gingham flaunted a collar of white organdie bound in the gingham and with an insert of rickrack braid.

Costs Girls $250 Year for Clothes

New York, March 14.—It costs New York girls, at the least, $250 annually to clothe themselves properly, members of the League of Girls' clubs announced today. Today's report, filed after the working girls composing the league had answered a questionnaire on the subject, declared that Topeka, Kansas, and Chicago estimates are too low for New York

A recent report of the findings of Topeka merchants declared that $82 was a sufficient dress allowance for a working girl. Chicago girls later reported they could dress properly on $117 annually. To keep up appearances in New York business standards, New York girls claim clothes allowances can be no lower than given in the following items:

One suit, $30, one coat, $50; shoes, $16, hose, $11; lingerie, $34; hats, $20, gloves, $10; waists and dresses, $80.

"THE FRONTIER OF THE STARS."

Buck Leslie (Thomas Meighan) is an East Side gangster, a man who has never known any good. Buck tries to stop a fight between Gregory, a chemist, and a Bowery roughneck. Phil Hoyt, a detective finds Gregory's revolver on him and attempts to arrest the gangster. But Buck escapes, seeking safety on the roof of a tenement.

In a wheel chair on the roof is Hilda Shea, a pretty cripple, who has never been on the streets and who knows no bad. The novelty of a man on the housetop is a big event in her colorless life, and she gladly hides him behind the chimney. When the detective arrives, Hilda denies having seen anyone.

Buck is attracted to Hilda and thereafter pays several visits to her, during which she inspires him to seek an honest living. He makes good. Gregory, still hating Buck, frames him so that some dangerous explosives will be found in the ex-gangster's possession, which point to his having cracked the safe of Gunz, a pawnbroker. Hoyt, the detective, comes upon Buck while he is with Hilda on the roof. A fight ensues. In the excitement Hilda walks, for the first time in her life. The explosives set fire to the tenement. Buck risks his life to save Hilda.

The detective leaves them in each other's arms. This is "The Frontier of the Stars" coming to the Alhambra, starting Thursday.

"DOUG" SAYS ALL BOYS ARE IDOL WORSHIPPERS.

All boys, according to Douglas Fairbanks, are idol worshippers. They seek to follow the footsteps of those who make history because they love the spectacular and the man who excels. All of which makes the world progress. No youngster can establish ideals to shoot at too early in life. And if he's well supplied with ambition for ammunition he'll hit any mark he aims at.

"Like the average American kid," said Doug. "I cherished an idol. In fact, I joined the juvenile league of idol worshippers very early. In picking my hero, I was influenced, as most youngsters are, by environment and associations. My dad, a practicing attorney in Denver, Colorado, was a very close friend of Edwin Booth, the celebrated Shakespearian actor. Many were the letters that passed between Booth and my father, and whenever the famous actor came to Denver he was always a guest at our home. He would discuss his plays with my dad, often accepting suggestions meant for their improvement. So what was more natural than that Edwin Booth should become my idol?"

This early association, coupled with the training Fairbanks received as a boy, wielded a great influence on his life. His father wanted him to study law; his mother, on the other hand, wanted him to become an actor. So to please them he became both. This feature is playing at the Auditorium theater this week to capacity houses.

SINGS QUAINT MAORI GIRL SONG IN "DEAR ME."

As a singer of what might be termed "Personality songs"—quaint ballads and songs of intelligence rhythm, Grace La Rue has no equal on the American stage. Her many imitators further prove this assertion. In fact, more than one noted critic has called her "the Yvette Guilbert of America." Her training in vaudeville, as a musical comedy star and a Ziegfeld Follies favorite on the concert stage and her thorough vocal ... fitted her pre-eminently for this work.

Although she has forsaken the musical stage for straight dramatic work, in "Dear Me," the John Golden comedy in which she is co-starred with Hale Hamilton and which comes to the Auditorium theater on next Friday evening, this being a benefit performance for the local Post American Legion.

Miss La Rue is given the opportunity to sing a few numbers—always to the intense delight of the audience.

One of her favorites is a Maori girl song, called "Poi." Readers of Frederick O'Brien's stories of the Marquesas of globe-trotters who have visited the Hawaiian Islands will say that poi is a favorite food of the islanders. But in the case of Miss La Rue's song, it is really about the game of poi, which is the pastime of the Maori girls in New Zealand. The song was composed and written by Alfred Hill and sung by K... Hammond in a musical comedy produced in Australia. Miss La Rue is the first to sing it in this country. Parts of the song are in the native tongue of the Maori.

SMALL TOWN BOY GETS TASTE OF BIG CITY LIFE.

Wesley Barry, the freckled-faced screen star, was given a taste of high life in the Big City during the filming of the Warner Brothers production, ... Edwards' "School Days," which will be shown at the Rex theater ... week.

The picture ... life in a rural community, and then shifts to the locale of New York City. For the first time Wesley glimpses the vast and commotions Pennsylvania railroad station, and ... confessed that the first look almost staggered him.

WILDE WRITES SCENARIO FOR MARIE PREVOST.

Percival Wilde, who wrote Marie Prevost's first starring vehicle, "Moonlight Follies," which will come to the Gem theater on Wednesday is said to have had more plays produced at "Little Theaters" than any other American author. Wilde, who has written many successful stage plays, including "The Woman in Room 13," has given to the screen one of its breeziest comedy dramas in "Moonlight Follies."

REAL WILD DEER IN NORTHWESTERN FILM.

Henry MacRae, director of this virile Ralph Connor production, set his stage for some of the most effective scenes in the wildest locations to be secured along the famous Sundance Canyon of the Canadian Rockies. On a frosty morning in November the chase of the hero after one of the villains of the story, took them over a mountain side where film fans will be electrified by the very unusual sight of a wild deer frantically crossing the path between the pursued and the pursuer in full view of the camera.

Encouraged by this accidental occurrence, Mr. MacRae concluded to spend additional weeks of time so that he might inject into the picture such realism as could be secured by a continuance of these unusual and unexpected circumstances, with the result that "Cameron of the Royal Mounted," which is at the Grand theater today for three day engagement is one of the most entertaining pictures ever produced. It's a Hodkinson release.

"THE HELL DIGGERS" SCORES BIG AT ALHAMBRA.

Presenting something decidedly new and novel, "The Hell Diggers," Wallace Reid's latest Paramount starring vehicle, was shown with no inconsiderable success at the Alhambra theater yesterday. For the first time in the history of the screen, the giant dredging machines which are employed to pan the earth in the gold fields of northern California are made the central theme of a gripping and fascinating story.

The star is supported by a cast of famous players, headed by Lois Wilson, the heroine of "What Every Woman Knows," and "The Lost Romance." Others in the cast are Alexander Broun, Frank Leigh, Lucien Littlefield, Clarence Geldart, and Bud Post. This feature remains over Wednesday.

The editors give all credit to the Scouts for the fact that the issue was gotten out on time:—Only the strong young arms of the Brillion Boy Scouts enabled us to turn the wheels of our newspaper press to enable us to produce this issue and maintain our record of no issue missed." HUMANE ASSOCIATION TO HOLD CONTEST

Albany, N. Y., March 14.—Anyone willing to champion animals or humans against cruelty and neglect may compete for prizes in a poster, essay and carton contests to be conducted by the American Humane Association. The contest will close May 20, William O. Stillman of this city, president, announced. Cash prizes totalling $412, will be awarded in various groups, to include the young and the not-so-young. For example, there will be a cartoon group for persons born before May 20, 1903, and another for persons born after May 19, 1903. Poster groups cover the various school grades, with a group for art students and any persons not included in the other groups. Special prizes for posters and essays are offered to pupils in Indian schools.

Posters should illustrate "the idea of kindness to animals or human beings, or of abuses or cruelties that should be stopped." A poster which was a winner last year in a similar contest shows a little girl kneeling to gather a tiny dog into her arms, and apparently reproving three small boys who stand beside her. A can dangles from the dogs docked tail. In another winning poster a fox, silhouetted against the moon, lifts a foot clutched by the jaws of a trap. Subjects suggested this year include: child labor; juvenile courts; overworked, overloaded, improperly shod and unblanketed animals; overcrowding animals and poultry; barbarous slaughter methods; humane Christmas cards.

Prizes are offered for both published and unpublished cartoons bearing the words "Be Kind to Animals."

SWISS ELECTRIC RAILROAD MAKE PROGRESS.

Berne, Switzerland.—The electrification of railroads is making rapid progress in Switzerland. The whole of the Gotthard Railroad from Lucerne to the Italian frontier now bears only electrically-drawn freight, thus effecting a saving of over 2,000 tons of coal monthly. Other lines to the German and Italian frontiers are being transformed for electric traction.

HAS MUNICIPAL FOREST.

Munich—There may be a suggestion for Americans in the fact that a small town in northern Bavaria recently gave to each inhabitant a present of 60 marks derived from the sale of wood cut in the municipal forest which was planted 15 or 20 years ago.

Germany for years has expended much energy in reforestration, many of the municipalities throughout the country owning forests which are carefully nursed and used as public works by the local inhabitants.

ADVOCATE 'HOME MAKING' STUDY

University Head Says Girl Students Are Being Educated Away From Instead of Toward the Home.

Janesville, Wis., March 14.—Compulsory courses in "home making" for all girl students at Northwestern university—and for all co educational schools, for that matter—was urged by Dr Walter Dill Scott, president of that institution, before a meeting of representatives of a Janesville Woman's club and alumni of Northwestern here President Scott quite clearly indicated that he fels that girl students today are being educated away from instead of toward the home

"Very little has been or is being done for those who, after graduation become home-makers," he said. "Most women graduates of our colleges, five years after graduation, are found to be homemakers; but the training they receive in colleges has sometimes been such as to make them discontented and accordingly inefficient in the home.

"This situation is most serious and a change must be made. The women's colleges scarcely dare adopt a program different from that provided for men lest they be classed as inferior to men's schools. Co educational institutions probably offer better training for women and certainly are in a better position to experiment and to lead in the evolution of the education of college women

"The home maker is commonly the purchasing agent for the family. She hires the labor, assumes responsibility for food, clothing and for household decorations and maintenance She is the nurse, the educator and the social secretary for each member of the household She has the directing voice in the affairs of the church, the local schools, the city administration, the state politics the national government, and the league of nations

"The numerous responsibilities devolving on the typical homemaker present more difficulties of administration than does the task faced by our men graduates who enter business or the learned professions. In importance of function and in difficulty of execution, the task of the home maker must become more and more an object of consideration for the executive officers of co educational and of women's colleges.

"The boards that administer these institutions should thrive in every way to meet the needs of these college women who are to become home makers

President Scott said that he advocated a course in home making not in the sense of training "teachers in domestic science" but for all girl students throughout their college course on the basis of direct need.

SPARE THE RINSING AND SPOIL THE CLOTHES

No matter how carefully you have washed your clothes, if you have not rinsed every bit of soap out, they will still be yellow. Use a soap that dissolves completely and there is less danger of particles sticking to the clothes to yellow them.

Rinso is an entirely new kind of soap that dissolves instantly, making both water and clothes slippery with its pure, rich suds. It soaks all the dirt out of the clothes so that no hard rubbing is needed to get them spotlessly clean.

Rinso is easier to rinse out than a soap with solid particles to stick to the fabric. But because the rich Rinso suds loosen every bit of dirt, very thorough rinsing is necessary to carry off the dirt.

Rinso is rapidly replacing bar soap for the family wash.

BIRDS INTERRUPT CABLE SERVICE

Build Nests On Arms of Poles and Cause Short Circuits and Delay Messages.

Buenos Aires—Birds who build their nests on the arms of telegraph poles are one of the most exasperating causes of the interruption of cable communication between North and South America, according to officials of the All-America Cables

The nest builders construct their homes along the land section of the company's lines between Valparaiso and Buenos Aires and causing short circuits, sometimes delay messages, say the officials.

One of these annoying nest-builders is called by the natives "el carpintero," another "el hornero," meaning respectively the "carpenter" and the "kiln builder" Both of them select the angle between the arm of the pole and the peg which holds the insulator to construct their homes using the telegraph wires as additional support

The "homero" builds his nest mostly of clods of earth and the "carpintero" employs small sticks and frequently bits of discarded telegraph fence wire She "hornero's" nest is usually harmless until it rains when it becomes mud, the water in which establishes a circuit with the arm of the pole or between the different wires But when the "carpintero" tries to reenforce the walls of his house with a piece of wire, the disaster to communication is instantaneous

All the way from Buenos Aires to Valparaiso up over the Andes, the All-America Cable line employs patrols armed with long poles whose duty it is to watch for these nests and destroy them. The birds working in pairs will build a nest in a few hours, it is said.

The patrols also have to watch for "Devil's Beard," the thick web of a species of Argentine spider, swept from the ground by the wind and carried against the telegraph wires electrically connecting them when wet by rain or dew.

MUST HAVE KEY MONEY.

Shanghai—"Key money", an institution peculiar to Shanghai, and one of the added burdens for the man seeking a dwelling place in this era of high rents has come under official disapproval and is condemned in a recent ruling of the Mixed Court of Shanghai. Key money, so-called, simply is a bonus exacted from tenants on taking of houses they rent and commonly in Shanghai amounts to three or four times the amount of the monthly rental for a house. "We do not consider that new tenants should be required to pay more than other tenants of similar classes of houses," says the Mixed Court ruling, "and we will give no official recognition to the practice of taking key money, of which we strongly disapprove."

REDS PROGRESS IN WIRELESS

Soon To Have Station Capable Of Transatlantic Service Which Will Be Most Powerful In the World.

Moscow.—Moscow Russia will soon have a wireless station capable of transatlantic service, says H. Nikolaieff, assistant commissar for posts and telegraphs.

The station is in progress of erection at Bogorodck, near Moscow and is expected to be one of the most powerful in the world Its towers will be more than 900 feet high, which is 300 feet higher than the famous German wireless station at Nauen. The new Russian station will have a strength of 500 kilowatts.

Nikolaieff adds that Soviet Russia sas made great progsess in wireless communication in the last four years and cites as evidence of it the fact that the station at Moscow is able to hold telephone conversations with another at Chita, Siberia, 3,000 miles distant. Russia now has 38 sending stations and 290 receiving stations

New wireless stations will be erected within the next few months at Tashkent, Kharkov and Novo Nikolaevsk as well as at the radial points of the Siberian water basin and along the Arctic sea coast where nine stations were installed in 1921.

PREACHER-COP WOULD CLEAN UP LARGE CITY

"Moral Consciousness" Is Weapon He Would Use To Rid City of Underworld Population.

Chicago March 14.—(By NEA)—Rev. John H. Williamson, Methodist preacher who has been named law enforcement commissioner with instructions from Mayor Thompson to make Chicago a clean town, is going to replace the policeman's club with a Bible.

This was his answer to a round robin letter addressed to the minister by a number of citizens of the underworld who wanted to know what method of eradicating them Rev. Williamson was going to pursue.

Rev Williamson does say, however that 20th century Christianity will be the guiding light in his program to rid the second largest city of its crooks and undesirables

[illegible] the new law enforcer plans to clean up Chicago by instilling "a moral consciousness in the community." By that he means every man his own detective, detecting himself when it is necessary, as well as detecting others

"We shall have a democracy at work," he says. "It will be the conquering by the greatest good of the greatest number

Under Rev. Williamson's regime, Chicago is to be dotted with volunteer vigilante citizens' committees. Civic organizations, women's clubs, and neighborhood groups are to be enlisted in the campaign against crime and vice

This is the way Rev. Williamson, looking into the future, sees his plans materialize.

Each man his brother's keeper.

Volunteer watchers over "lovers' lanes."

Vigilante members doing bathing beach patrol.

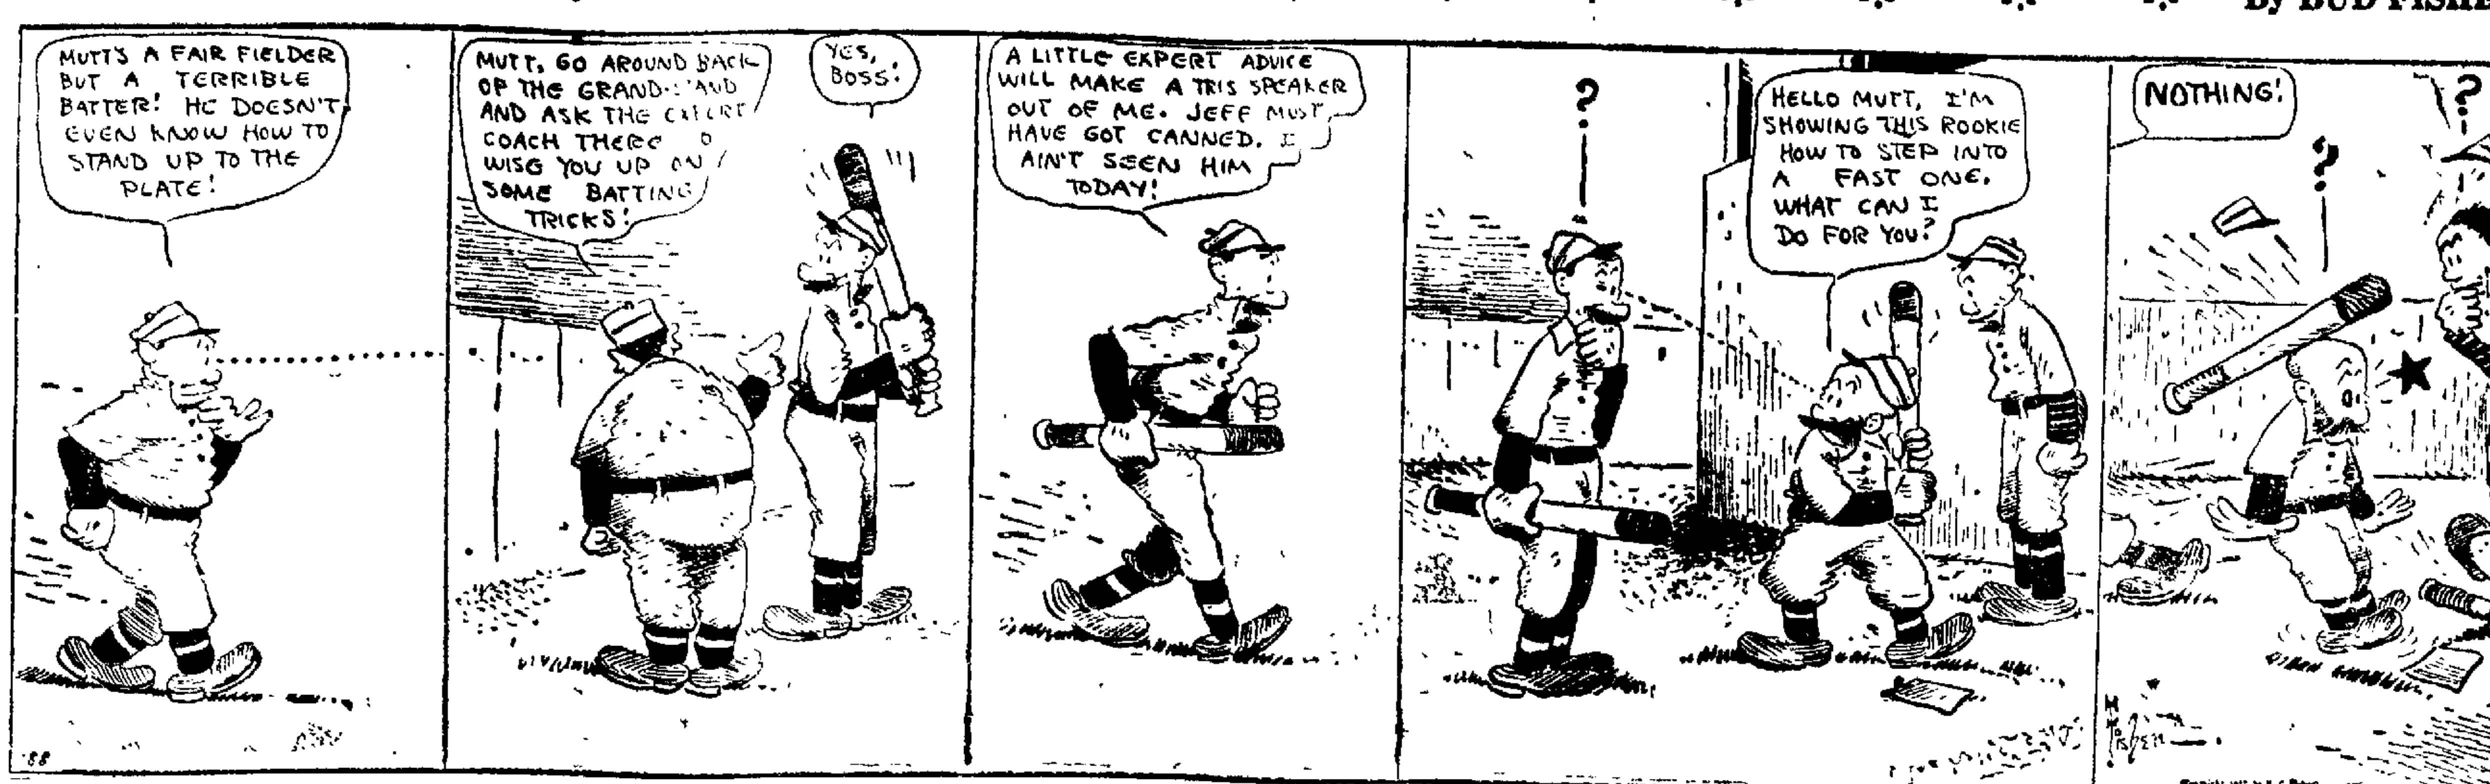

A "citizen detective" at the door of every crime waiting to nab the offender

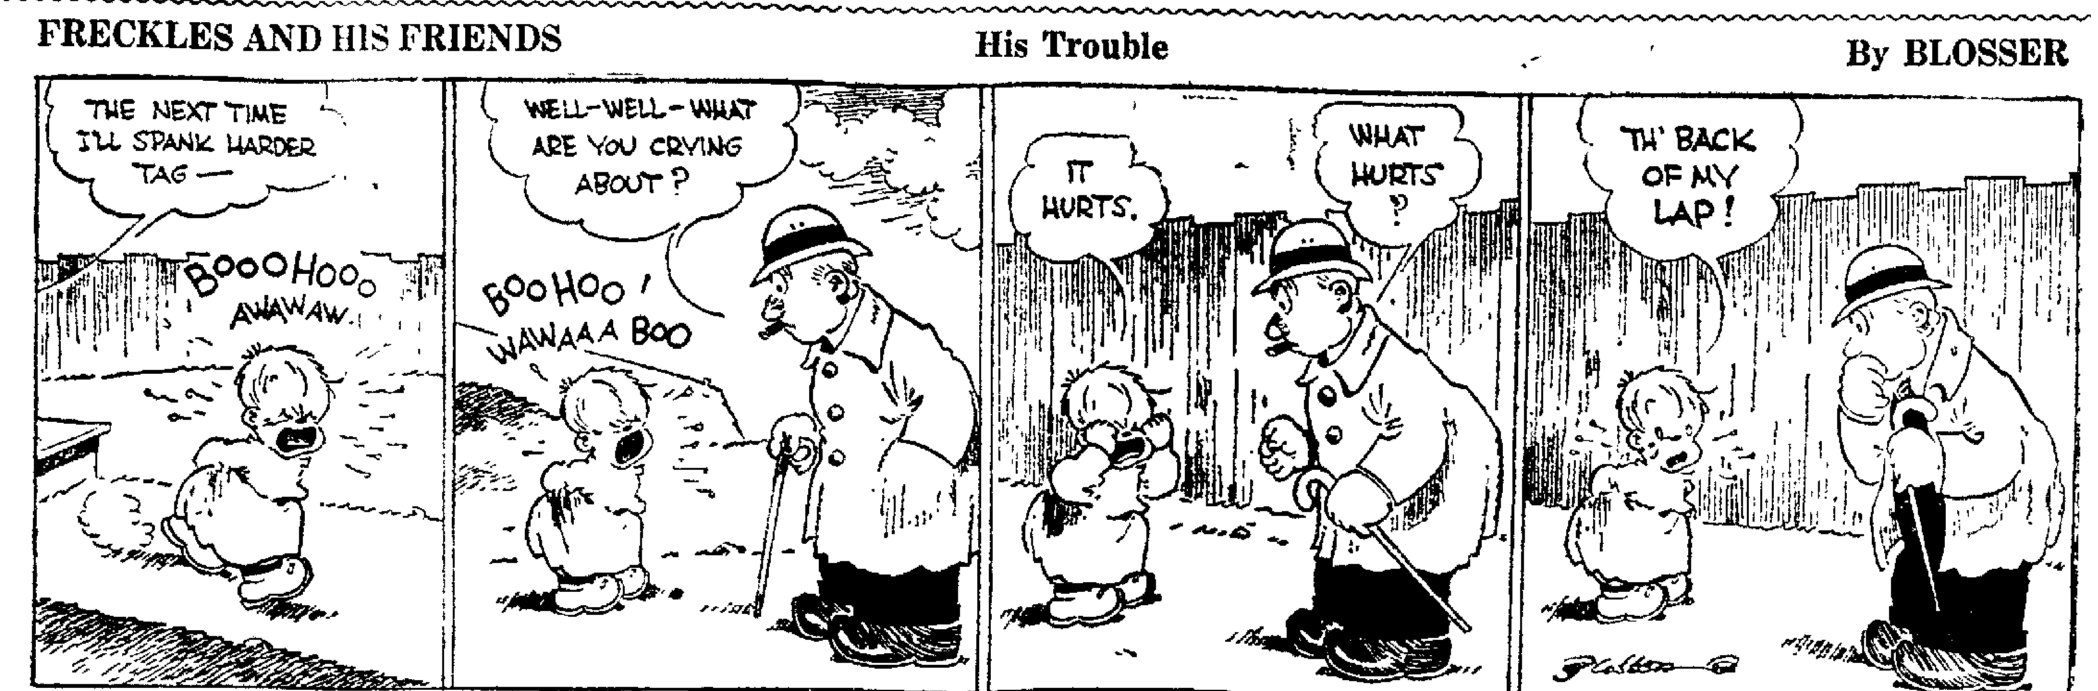

In the minister-cop's eyes, the most important item in this league for law observance is the plea to the individual to accept more responsibility for the conduct of his neighbor.

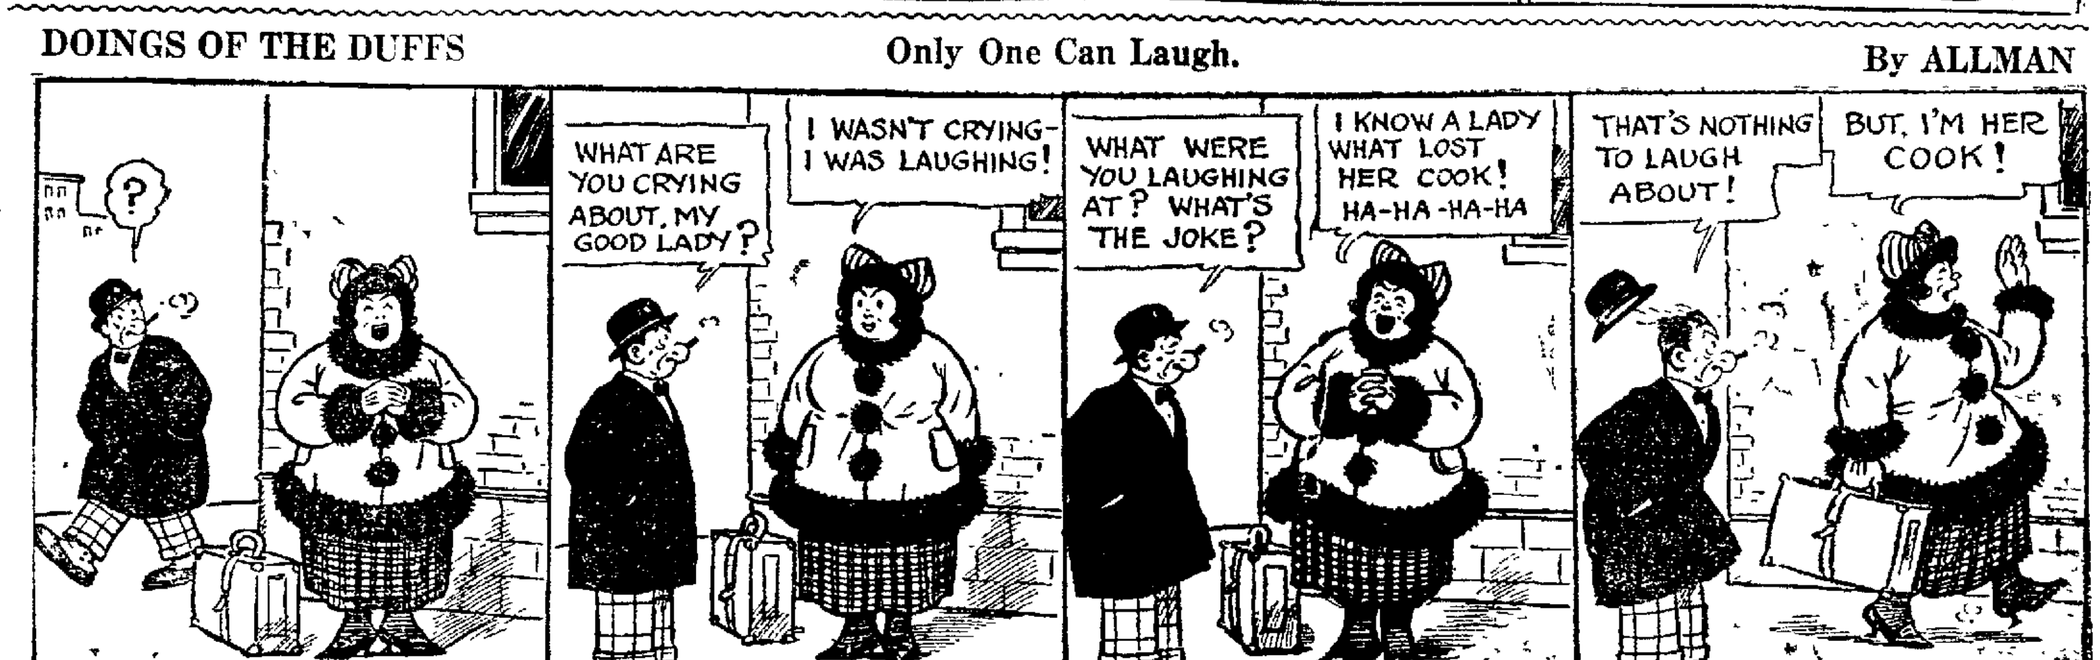

"Each man is his brother's keeper," he says. "When that is recognized, there will be less crime because the individual influence for good will radiate a wholesome community atmosphere."

Rev. J. H. Williamson

IF IN MOSCOW DO NOT LOSE COLLAR BUTTON

Also a Tragedy If Your Shirt Wears Out.

Moscow—Russian markets lack nearly every sort of manufactured article the world can afford, unless it be artificial hair, perfumes and toilet articles. The beauty parlors seem to have adequate supplies and are doing a thriving business.

The man who loses a collar button in Moscow is ruined. It is a tragedy when collars and shirts wear out. The odds and ends in the shops are chiefly the sizes for very small boys and giants. The neckties are patterns which German dealers couldn't sell at home.

Shopkeepers put everything attractive they have in their windows. Inquiry within always demonstrates that they have no stock in regular sizes.

Government taxes on merchants are mounting daily and the merchants pile the tax on their prices. Small notion shops on side streets in Moscow are charged 60,000,000 paper rubles a year for their licenses, which at the government rate is 600 gold rubles, or about $300.

The news that Russia had been invited to participate in the Genoa conference came as a great relief to merchants who are having great difficulty in acquiring new stock. One merchant who formerly had a great drygoods store in Moscow and is now running a combination shop where both old and new clothing and household effects are sold made the prediction, upon hearing of the Genoa invitation, that three months after Russia received foreign credit it will be one of the best places in the world for merchants.

"We haven't any goods. We can't get stocks," he exclaimed, pointing to his odd assortment of wearing apparel and job ends of notions. "There are plenty of customers in Russia. All we need is stocks."

BLAME DEPRESSION ON RESTRICTIONS

London—Governmental restrictions are blamed in part for the business depression in London in a letter which the Imperial Commercial Association has sent to the liquor licensing justices. Its signers predict that disastrous result will follow the cloing of public houses at 10 o'clock as foreshadowed.

The letter is signed by Baron Inchcape, one of the leading shipping men of Great Britain; Baron Swavthling, banker; Baron Ritchie, vice chairman of the Port of Lnodon Authority; Lord Balfour of Burleigh, former Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Trade; Baron Ashfield, managing director of the underground railways; Baron Faringdon, chairman of the Great Central Railway; Viscount Devonport, chairman of the Port of London Authority and former food controller, and Sir J. P. Hewitt.

They asserted that "it is probable that never in the history of this country has the liberty of the individual been more subject to rigorous limitations than at present.

"London has flourished and become famous largely because of the attractive features which it has presented to the traveling public, but the ever-tightening grip of control is changing all this."

The Association contends that much of the blame for the present unhappy condition of trade and commerce "must be apportioned to the restrictions and limitations imposed upon business and individuals by authorities."

The writers assert that these restrictions result in the establishment of an arbitrary and bureaucratic authority, and the limitation of the right of the citizen to conduct himself with that freedom which is an essential part of the character of a free citizen.

RECOGNIZE NEW ART IN BUILDINGS

Paris—The praises of American architects, whose work he describes as a "new art in the truest sense of the word," are sung by George Wybo, a young French architect, in the columns of the Intransigeant.

The old skyscrapers of New York, he says, "are not always the happiest examples of architectual conception," but the newer office buildings erected within the last ten or fifteen years are described as "impeccable in execution, well proportioned, possessing harmonious lines, with decorative elements of sober taste, constructed of splendid materials, finely fashioned."

The sight of these buildings causes the Frenchman to recognize the existence of a new art "in the truest sense of the word, an art capable of making us feel strong emotions similar to those awakened within us by the power and splendor of our cathedrals and certain monuments of the past in Europe."

Referring to the "tremendous temples of commerce," M. Wyho says, "all these buildings are different from one another, but each in its own style, in its construction, form and architectual lines is undeniabliy a masterpiece.

"It is regrettable that we French, so ready to welcome decadent art, do not even know the names of the decorators, sculptors and architects of modern New York. All these artists, working with intelligence and method, have progressively freed themselves from worn out conventions and discarding simple elements of decoration, have succeeded rapidly in laying down the rules of an art of which we are seeing now only the early manifestations and which, to our honor, is a direct emanation of our own French styles.

SAYS BRITISH INDIAN POLICY IS A FAILURE

Editorial In Magazine Indian Review So States.

Said To Be Indicative of Moderate Party's Attitude.

Madras, India—The policy adopted by the British government in India is characterized as a failure in an editorial in the current issue of the Indian Review, signed by G. A. Natesan, its editor. The magazine is one of the most conservative of the publications issued by Indians.

Its comment is regarded here as indicating, to some extent, the attitude of the leaders of the Moderate Party who heretofore have remained loyal to British rule. It has been claimed here that the government of India is losing the confidence of the leaders of this party because of what is called here its "policy of repression." The editorial writer says in part:

"In launching a policy of wholesale repression and indiscriminate arrests the government has played into the hands of Non-Cooperators. Repression everywhere has been a failure. It has failed in Egypt and in Ireland and it is bound to fail in India, especially in the India after the war. Such a policy defeats its own object by increasing the tension, alienating the popular sympathy and aggravating the general unrest.

"By their grave blunder the bureaucracy has helped to make what might have been a partial or unsuccessful hartal in connection with the Prince's (of Wales) visit, into a complete one—a result in itself deeply to be deplored.

"Surely, one may ask, is it policy or panic to haul up men like C. R. Das and Motilal Nehru with the thousands that follow their lead and give them a ready handle for civil disobedience. Already hundreds have courted arrest and flocked to the jail and it is clear that more are ready to follow. It would be disastrous to experiment on anything like a trial of strength at a juncture like this. The way to peace is in conciliation."

Chicago Grain Review.

Chicago, March 14.—Buying on the part of strong commission houses lifted the price of wheat a little today during the early trading, although the beginning of business was at a material decline. Further rains in the southwest together with lower quotations from Liverpool were chiefly responsible for the initial set back. Liquidation on the part of holders here, however appeared to be at an end for at least the time being. The start which varied from half cent to 1 3-8c lower, with May $1.31 1-4 to $1.31 3-4c and July $1.13 3-4 to $1.14 1-2c, was followed by upturns all around to slightly above yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. After opening 1-8 to 7-8c lower, May 60 to 60 3-8c, the corn market scored trifling gains in some cases.

Oats started 1-8 to 3-8c down, May 38 to 38 1-8c, and then more than recovered.

Provisions were lower in line with the hog market.

Chicago Live Stock.

Chicago, March 14.—Cattle: receipts 12,000; very slow; undertone weak to lower on all classes; few early sales. Beef steers and fat she stock 15 to 25c lower; bulk beef steers quality to sell $7.40@8.45.

Hogs: receipts 23,000; slow mostly 25c lower than yesterday's average. Top $10.70 practical limit $10.65; bulk $10@10.50; pigs mostly 25c lower; bulk desirable 100 to 120 pounders $9@9.35.

Sheep: receipts 16,000; fat lambs opening weak to lower; fat sheep 25 to 50c lower. No fat wooled lambs sold early. Wooled ewe top early $16.75; good 16-pound shorn ewes; shearing lambs to yard traders $14.50.

Wall Street.

New York, March 14.—The upward movement in selected or special issues was continued at the opening of today's stock market, traders paying no attention to further unsettlement abroad. Many representatives rails and industrials were quoted in the initial dealings. Such miscellaneoeus issues as Remington Typewriter, common and second preferred, Kelsey Wheel, Public Cervice of New Jersey, United Railways preferred and Replogle Steel were among the active and strong stocks. Secondary rails were featured by Ann Arbor preferred, Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred and Chesapeake and Ohio at gains of ont to almost two points.

In its main essentials the early market followed the irregular movements of the previous session. Former favorites were dull and relatively unchanged while numerous minor specialties were active and strong. Utilities, especially Market Street Railway preferred and prior preferred Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas and Manhattan Elevated extended their gains by one to four points. Automobile subsidiaries, especially Bosch Magneto and Stromberg Carburetor, strengthened. Cast Iron Pipe, Vanadium and Nova Scotia Steel averaged one point gains. Sugars and allied food shares were again in demand, but buying of oils centered in Cosden and Mexican Petroleum. Call money opened at 4 percent.

BUSINESS BETTER B. & L. MEN SAY

Fostoria, O., March 14.—Business in northwestern Ohio now is showing improvement after a period of extreme quietness, according to several hundred building and loan officials from nine northwestern counties here today.

"We have practically stopped the flow of money into wild cat investments," declared E. T. Lehman of Defiance, "and with this accomplished, building and loan institutions will be able to do much more toward financing the building boom that is just starting in this section of the state.

John W. Pugh, state superintendent of building and loan company, declared that every such institution in the state is in good shape and that nothing now stood in the way for six months prosperous business. He urged these institutions to take care of as many demands for building loans as possible that work might be provided for the unemployed.

The Billivlle Banner says of a departed citizen—"Nobody had anything against him. Once he came highly nigh to running for the legislature, but he took a second thought and continued to be of real service to his fellow-man.

PLAN ATHLETICS FOR MEN OF THE ATLANTIC FLEET

Naval Station Is Equipped With Baseball Fields.

For Elimination Fleet Is Divided Into Five Sections.

Guantanamo Bay, Cuba—A lively program of athletics for the benefit of the crews of the United States Atlantic Fleet, now in Cuban waters on its annual cruise, has been announced by the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Hilary P. Jones.

The event will include not only the usual competitions such as rowing races and those between sailing boat crews but also a schedule of baseball games for the fleet championship.

The Guantanamo naval station is especially well equipped with baseball fields and there is ample opportunity for both practice and competition. All the teams already are putting in most of their spare time after working hours at practice and the crew of the Delaware has rigged up a miniature diamond on the deck of the battleship surrounding it with netting.

For the purpose of the elimination games the fleet has been divided into five sections. Winners in each of these divisions will, if practicable, play a series of two or more games with the remaining four teams and the championship will be decided on percentages.

As the deed of gift of the Atlantic Fleet championship pennant restricts the holding of this trophy to battleships, additional baseball trophies have been provided for the destroyer and mine squadrons and the vessels of the train. These trophies are now held by the destroyer Graham, the cruiser Olympia and the Shawmut, of the mine force.

In addition to the baseball pennant, the Athletic Challenge Trophy, the Auckland Cup and the Correspondents Cup will be awarded to the champion battleship teams and the crews.

Championship belts are also offered in boxing and wrestling. New belts will be offered in cases where the holders of the championship in their respective classes have either left the fleet or have been discharged from the service.

Medals will be given to winners of swimming races. A race for the Dunlap Cup now held by the Delaware will take place here.

The preliminary games and contests already are being attended by thousands of vigorous rooters but all these spectators and enthusiasts are officers and men of the Atlantic Fleet.

RELIGIOUS CULT DISLIKES TAXES

Geneva.—The Antoniens, a new religious cult said to have some point of similiarity with Mormonism, have come into conflict with the authorities over taxes.

One of the leaders, Madame Barni and her three daughters, living at Heddingen, near Lucerne, tore their clothes to bits and jumped into a lake when police came to arrest them in an effort to collect taxes. The police, however, pulled the four women out of the water, wrapped them in blankets and took them off to jail.

CAPITAL REQUIRED.

It is estimated that the amount of capital required to put the railroads of this country in first-class condition would amount to from $4,000,000,000 to $6,000,000,000. Approximately one-half of this amount is needed for additional tracks and equipment to accommodate increased traffic.

REPORT ON YEAR'S WORK

King's Daughters Hold Annual Meeting and Supper When Departments Make Reports of Work Done.

(Special to the Advocate)

Granville, March 14—The King's Daughters assembled Monday evening for their annual meeting, preceded by supper at 6 o'clock. The long tables along two sides of the room literally "groaned" under the weight of the edibles contributed, which were more than abundant to serve the 75 present, who helped themselves. Sixteen members acted as the social committee, the guests from Newark being given precedence in the line: Mrs. David Jones, Mrs. Harry Gibson, Mrs. Oney, Miss Alice Ashbrook and Miss Elizabeth Felix.

Miss Gertrude Carpenter led the devotional service and Miss Lillie Jones presided at the business session. Miss Mae Stark in her financial report mentioned the year's assets as being $1,276.32; expenditures, $1,113.63; balance on hand $162.69. Mrs. Harley Shirk for the visiting committee reported 196 calls; Miss Sarah Evans for the flower committee, 114 plants and bouquets to "shut ins"; 38 bereaved families remembered with flowers, and 23 Easter cards sent.

Miss Blanche Horton reported 23 regular and three extra work meetings; Bible study at 20 regular meetings; 14,755 Red Cross seals were sold; proceeds from the November lawn fete were given to the Victrola fund for Rock Ledge Inn; the circle paid the bills in the Newark City Hospital during 12 weeks for a young man; since January the circle has contributed $1.50 a week to a widow unable to work; eight new active and one contributing member were reported, and the death of three members during the year.

Mrs. John Lake in the Christmas report gave credit to the Boy Scouts for collecting toys and for helping distribute the baskets.

Mrs. H. L. Williams for the "Whatsoever" committee, reported 15 dinners sent; fruit and grape juice and 12 rolls of cloth to the sick, and 34 articles of second-hand clothing during the year. Mrs. N. H. Overturf for the social committee reported a banquet, a dinner for old soldiers, two markets, two pot-luck suppers and a supper for the bazaar.

The present officers were re-elected. Miss Lillie Jones, leader, Mrs. Everett, first vice president; Miss Carpenter, second vice president; Miss Horton, secretary, and Miss Stark, treasurer.

In the carpet rag contest Mrs. Trout's side won 408 1-2 points, Mrs. Ackley's 400 points; but the latter contributed 365 pounds, the former 253 pounds, hence the forfeit was declared off.

New members received were: Mrs. Louise Bates, Mrs. G. W. Beall, Mrs. Lee Williams, Mrs. B. C. Belt, and Miss Rhea Hartzler.

The Cosmopolitan club of Denison will be entertained this evening by the Shepardson club in their rooms over the dining hall, and Dr. Kirtley Mather will address the company.

In the story of London as presented in consecutive programs by the Travelers' club, Monday's features were "The Houses of Parliament" given by Mrs. Anne E. Smith, and "Literary Haunts" by Mrs. Daniel Rogers. Both papers were illustrated by numerous photographs and prints passed through the audience. Following the literary program, Mrs. August Odebrecht gave an exhibit of her dolls and explained "How she came to engage in the industry." She said that it started a year ago last Christmas in her gifts to some small relatives in Columbus, since which time she has been overwhelmed with orders for "Odie Clown Dolls," for "Charter Dolls," and for two models of "rabbits." She read poems and excerpts from letters received from all parts of this country and many from abroad—expressing appreciation of these handmade dolls. She exhibited about two dozen, none of which were for sale, she said, nor was she soliciting patronage.

Dr. C. L. Williams, professor emeritus of English in Denison university, is in Mansfield where this afternoon he speaks before the women's literary clubs of the city on: "The Different Classes of Persons on Whom Shakespeare has had an Unhappy Influence." This evening he is to be honor guest and principal speaker at the banquet of the Mansfield Rotary club, taking for his topic: "Why We are Rotarians."

Willis Willis, Denison student who was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, for an operation for appendicitis, is convalescing rapidly.

Phi Delta Theta fraternity entertained, Saturday evening, at the Chapter house on Prospect hill with a party of 12 couples.

Miss Helen Scott, of Mt. Vernon, a former Denison student, spent the week-end in Granville, at the home of the Misses Mayme and Martha Geach.

Mrs. C. S. Frazier who has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. K. H. Eschman, returned to her home, in Dresden, Monday.

Prof. M. E. Stickney states that his bird class on the Saturday's expedition, catalogued 28 of the early animals—but that the day was not so favorable as was the previous week, when they found and identified 31 varieties of birds.

The Fortnightly club will meet at the home of Mrs. Harry L. Pierce in North Pearl street, Tuesday evening at 7:15 o'clock.

The Granville Opera house was packed to the doors, Saturday evening, for the two performances of the photoplay, "The Three Musketeers," which will show again in Granville, Friday night.

Miss Mary A. Jones, who has been ill for the past eight weeks at Monomay place, Broadway, is able to come downstairs once more.

J. S. Jones, who, with his family has been wintering in Florida, plans to return on business, this week.

FACES 35 MURDER CASES.

Jackson, Ky., March 14.—Thirty-five murder cases, 15 of which involve the slaying of five men election day last fall, at the Clay Hole precinct, are on the docket of the March term of the Bresthitt circuit court, which opened here. It is reported the governor may be asked to send state militia here during the trials. The five killings resulted after a clash between two factions at the Clay Hole precinct during which the ballot boxes were seized, thrown into Troublesome creek and riddled with bullets.

SLAYER LOSES APPEAL.

Columbus, March 14.—The supreme court today over-ruled a motion to file a petition in error in the case of Edward Moffett, Summit county under sentence to be electrocuted for the murder of his wife. Moffett is to be electrocuted March 24th.

YOU TAKE COLD EASIEST WHEN YOU ARE TIRED

Medical Experts agree that colds can be passed from one person to another, but they say that in order to "catch cold" your vitality must be lowered, you must be overtired, or weakened and run down and your power of resistence be low normal. You can keep free from colds by keeping your strength up and no better tonic food medicine for this purpose than Father John's Medicine is known. It will enable you to throw off a cold and rebuild your health and strength because it is made of pure food elements which strengthen and build up new resisting power. Father John's Medicine has had over sixty-five years of success for colds, coughs and body building.

WHOLE FAMILY HAD STOMACH TROUBLE

Now Praise Nerv-Worth for Making Them Well.

It has long been claimed that there was no family remedy to equal Nerv-Worth for the reason that it is the safest, surest relief for any kind of stomach or bowel trouble and most ills have their beginning in one of the other or both— indigestion or constipation.

The Goodwill family, of Pleasantville, Penn., certainly has reason to be thankful that they knew of this famous family remedy, for it rescued all of them from serious illness. The father, mother and daughter all suffered severely from indigestion. Neither the father or the mother could sleep well and suffered from heartburn and gas bloat, while the little girl was extremely nervous. After taking Nerv-Worth for a very short time none of them had any indication of indigestion, slept well, ate anything they wished and enjoyed perfect health.

Most druggists have Nerv-Worth at one dollar a bottle. It is always on sale in this city at the T. J. Evans and Erman drug stores and every druggist is authorized to give the money back if results from the first bottle are not satisfactory. Try a bottle today and see just what it will do for you.

GREB BEST IN GIBBONS BOUT

Pittsburgher Flays the St. Paul Pugilist, But Neither Looks Good Enough for Go With Dempsey.

New York, March 14.—Harry Greb, a young man from Pittsburgh, was today bearing his blushing honors after a coming-out affair at Madison Square Garden last night. Thomas Gibbons of St. Paul, a handsome youth, attempted to interfere with the success of Mr. Greb's debute in metropolitan society but he merely showed how the Pittsburgh man could perform before a large and select company.

The two men, light heavyweght pugilists by profession, were billed in advance as staging their meeting as a prelude to the latter man entering into active relations with William Harrison Dempsey, now champion mauler of the universe. After last night's social affair, attended by the flower of this city's smarter set, there was not much talk of either man being sent into the ring to give Mr. Dempsey a Roman holiday.

Mr. Greb was acclaimed the winner by the judge's decision because he used both hands in the windmill attack, while Mr. Gibbons depended upon finesse for his ponts. Greb was wild, but he swung more often and the percentage of landing a blow now and then was all in his favor. Gibbons landed at times, but the most of the time he was having trouble in avoiding the tornado of gloves hurling toward his marcelled head. He never got a chance to launch his attack to the body, his best stock in trade, and on the showing made Greb was without question the headliner for the evening.

TRIO OF VETERAN CUB STARS

Pitching is a ball team's greatest asset.

For that reason much of the success of the Chicago Cubs this year will depend on the showing made by Grover Cleveland Alexander and Speed Martin.

Alexander didn't have such a good year in 1921. A lot of the experts have expressed the opinion that Alexander has reached the spot in his career where it is only natural that he should start to slip.

Alexander, however, doesn't share their belief. He feels that he is due to put on a real comeback in 1921. For that reason he is grooming himself carefully for the coming campaign.

Alexander is one player who has no set rules to follow as to conditioning himself. Manager Killifer leaves it all to the veteran's judgment.

Speed Martin and Alexander are shown in the picture watching Manager Killifer handle the shoots of one of the promising Cub recruits.

GIANT'S LEADERS CHOOSE UP

Left to Right—John McGraw and Hughey Jennings

John McGraw and Hughey Jennings are in charge of affairs at the training camp of the New York Giants at Marlin, Texas. McGraw looks after the rookies and Jennings handles the regulars. Since McGraw knows what the veterans can do, he is more interested in directing the youngsters. The daily games between the regulars and the scrubs are hotly contested. There is always an argument as to which team shall take the field. This is settled by McGraw and Jennings in the usual kid fashion as shown in the picture.

IOWA U PLANS NEW STADIUM THIS YEAR

Iowa City, March 14.—Plans for a new stadium on Iowa field at the University of Iowa which, when completed will seat 42,000 people, are now perfected, and the first steps in construction work under way.

Work will be completed by June 2, when the Western Conference track meet is to be held here, will provide a seating capacity of approximately 22,000 for the event.

The method of financing the project is unique. The board of control is financing the construction with the proceeds of bond issues which will be redeemed by "the gate." The bonds were quickly absorbed and will be redeemed by the net proceeds of athletic contests.

The stadium, when completed, will be "U" shaped.

Construction work planned for this year will cost approximately $50,000. To complete the project would require approximately $150,000, but this work will not be started until the athletic department has paid off its present indebtedness of $100,000 incurred by the program now in execution.

WOULD PREVENT BOUT.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 14.—City and county authorities today had under consideration resolutions adopted by 15 churches, calling upon them to prevent the boxing bout here Friday night between Bob Martin, A. E. F. heavyweight champion and Carl Danner of New Jersey.

WANTS DEMPSEY BOUT.

Vancouver, B. C., March 14.—Seeking a mout in the United States with particular reference to Jack Dempsey, Jim Tracy, heavyweight champion of Australia will leave for Milwaukee tonight. There he will place himself under Tom Andrews wing.

CHILDREN'S EYES
Need Constant Watching
Children frequently misuse their eyes during the period when they are most suceptible to injury. Parents are often to be blamed for this condition.
The normal eye is not harmed by hard usage, but the growing eye, if defective in vision, may be permanently impaired by hard school work.
The only safe way is to have their eyes examined at the very first indication of trouble. We will be glad to do this for you.

Games This Week.

Wednesday: Alexanders vs. Florys; Grahams vs. Reeses.

Friday: Alexanders vs. Reeses; Grahams vs. Florys.

The Florys gave the Reeses a walloping last night at the Y. M. C. A. in the Volleyball league. The Reeses were again handicapped by not having with them their captain, but nevertheless Reese's squad tried hard to shut out their opponents, but the Florys got them in a nice fix and carried off two straights. Final scores: 15 to 9 and 15 to 4.

Alexander's squad gave the Grahams a run by two straights. The Alexanders knew quite well just at what spot the ball was safe. Owing to the rapid backfire of the ball and tricky plays, the Grahams were obliged to give in. Final scores: 15 to 11 and 15 to 8.

SPORT BRIEFS.

Dayton: Tut Jackson, Washington C. H. negro heavyweight, knocked out George Higgins of Dayton in the third of a six-round bout.

Indianapolis: Bryan Downey, Columbus middleweight, outpointed Frank Carbone of New York in 10 rounds.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 14.—Frankie Schoell of Buffalo, received the decision over Dave Shade of California at the end of their 15-round bout here last night.

CAMERON of the ROYAL MOUNTED
From Ralph Connor's Stirring Story
With GASTON GLASS, VIVIENNE OSBORNE, IRVING CUMMINGS, GEORGE LARKIN and FRANK LANNING
There are strange things that happen in that land of perpetual snows and cold, where the Nabob, the Prince and the Beggar meet on common ground, where one man's life is as good as another, where the lawless stalk their prey and the Scarlet Riders stalk the lawless.
But it's not always a land of death and pain. Love and romance demand their toll of the lives that come within the great borders, and there's happiness and sunshine to spare—enough to dim the tragedies that make this story the most startling and realistic tale of the Northwest ever written.
